Dear Parents,

SIS-PTA Cyber-Safety Presentation: Parenting the NetGeneration

The internet and associated electronics has changed the way people operate in their daily lives, from the work place to the home and everywhere in between. Parents often struggle to make sense of their children's relationship to cyberspace and are therefore posed with challenges in their parenting of their netgeneration sons and daughters. In this presentation Dr Justin Grayer (Clinical Psychologist) and Ms Anuradha Mathur (Clinical Therapist) will discuss issues such as the advantages and disadvantages of cyberspace, including the over use of electronics, and will provide advice on how parents can speak to their children about developing a balance in their life.

Dr Justin Grayer, Clinical Psychologist, works with adolescents and adults on a range of issues including abuse and dependence (addiction), which has also begun to include cyber use. He will apply his knowledge of the addictions field during the presentation.

Ms Anuradha Mathur, Clinical Therapist, works with children and adults providing guidance and counselling services. Among other issues, a large part of her work includes understanding and developing parent-child relationships as well as designing and implementing age appropriate behavior management programs for various situations. She will apply these skills in the context of safe cyber use during her presentation.
